

Dear Sirs,

I am a listener to an FM broscast that comes via transmitter and would like to address the expansion of Low Power FM (LPFM) stations and the impact thereof to my favorite station, Air 1.

Air 1 gives me the kind encouraging broadcast I like to listen to. It not only entertains, but helps me keep my focus on what matters in life. Were the expansion of LPFM stations to displace Air 1, there are simply no comparable stations I would be able to listen to. Where we live, we are quite limited in what we can get.

I can think of very few stations like Air 1, whose message would be so missed, that can fill the social and spiritual niche it does. I appeal to the FCC to consider the threat to stations like Air 1 and not allow that threat to materialize.

Thanks,
Your servant,
Bruce C. Ross
